The Politics of Modern Central America Fabrice Edouard Lehoucq, 2012-08-27 This book analyzes the origins and consequences of civil war in Central America. Fabrice Lehoucq argues that the inability of autocracies to reform themselves led to protest and rebellion throughout the twentieth century and that civil war triggered unexpected transitions to non-military rule by the 1990s. He explains how armed conflict led to economic stagnation and why weak states limit democratization - outcomes that unaccountable party systems have done little to change. This book also uses comparisons among Central American cases - both between them and other parts of the developing world - to shed light on core debates in comparative politics and comparative political economy. This book suggests that the most progress has been made in understanding the persistence of inequality and the nature of political market failures, while drawing lessons from the Central American cases to improve explanations of regime change and the outbreak of civil war.

Contesting Trade in Central America Rose J. Spalding, 2014-04-15 In 2004, the United States, five Central American countries, and the Dominican Republic signed the Central American Free Trade Agreement (CAFTA), signaling the region's commitment to a neoliberal economic model. For many, however, neoliberalism had lost its luster as the new century dawned, and resistance movements began to gather force. Contesting Trade in Central America is the first book-length study of the debate over CAFTA, tracing the agreement's drafting, its passage, and its aftermath across Central America. Rose J. Spalding draws on nearly two hundred interviews with representatives from government, business, civil society, and social movements to analyze the relationship between the advance of free market reform in Central America and the parallel rise of resistance movements. She views this dynamic through the lens of Karl Polanyi's "double movement" theory, which posits that significant shifts toward market economics will trigger oppositional, self-protective social countermovements. Examining the negotiations, political dynamics, and agents involved in the passage of CAFTA in Costa Rica, El Salvador, and Nicaragua, Spalding argues that CAFTA served as a high-profile symbol against which Central American oppositions could rally. Ultimately, she writes, post-neoliberal reform "involves not just the design of appropriate policy mixes and sequences, but also the hard work of building sustainable and inclusive political coalitions, ones that prioritize the quality of social bonds over raw economic freedom."

The State of State Reforms in Latin America Eduardo Lora, 2006-10-23 Latin America suffered a profound state crisis in the 1980s, which prompted not only the wave of macroeconomic and deregulation reforms known as the Washington

Consensus, but also a wide variety of institutional or 'second generation' reforms. 'The State of State Reform in Latin America' reviews and assesses the outcomes of these less studied institutional reforms. This book examines four major areas of institutional reform: a. political institutions and the state organization; b. fiscal institutions, such as budget, tax and decentralization institutions; c. public institutions in charge of sectoral economic policies (financial, industrial, and infrastructure); and d. social sector institutions (pensions, social protection, and education). In each of these areas, the authors summarize the reform objectives, describe and measure their scope, assess the main outcomes, and identify the obstacles for implementation, especially those of an institutional nature.

When Democracies Deliver Katherine Bersch, 2019-01-17 Drawing on cognitive-psychological findings and fieldwork, this book explains how government reforms are enacted and why they succeed or fail.

The Quality of Life in Latin American Cities Eduardo Lora, Andrew Powell, Bernard M.S. van Praag, Pablo Sanguinetti, 2010-05-04 A growing number of cities around the world have established systems for monitoring the quality of urban life. Many of those systems combine objective information with subjective opinions and cover a wide variety of topics. This book assesses a method that takes advantage of both types of information and offers criteria to identify and rank the issues of potential importance for urban dwellers. This method which combines the so-called 'hedonic price' and 'life satisfaction' approaches to value public goods was tested in pilot studies in six Latin American cities: Bogotá, Buenos Aires, Lima, Medellín, Montevideo, and San José of Costa Rica. It provides valuable insights to address key questions such as, Which urban problems have the greatest impact on people's opinions of city management and the most widespread effects on their lives? Do gaps between perception and reality vary from one area of the city to another, especially between high- and low-income neighborhoods? Where can homeowners most feasibly seek solutions to problems such as inadequate road infrastructure, a lack of recreational areas, or poor safety conditions? Which problems should government authorities address first, in light of their impact on the well-being of various groups of individuals and given private actors' abilities to respond? Which homeowners benefit the most from public infrastructure or services? When can or should property taxes be used to finance the provision of certain services or the solution of certain problems? 'The Quality of Life in Latin American Cities: Markets and Perception' proposes a monitoring system that is easy to operate and that entails reasonable costs but also has a solid conceptual basis. Long the ideal of many scholars and practitioners, such a system may soon become a reality and have the potential to make a significant contribution to the decision-making processes in any city concerned with the well-being of its residents.

Small Arms Control Jayantha Dhanapala, Mitsuru Donowaki, Lora Lumpe, 2019-01-04 First published in 1999, the papers collected in this volume were originally prepared for four workshops organized by the UN Department for Disarmament Affairs to inform the work of the Panel of Governmental Experts on Small Arms. These workshops were held during 1995-96.

Some of the authors updated their papers for publication in early 1998. Lora Lumpe, senior fellow with the Norwegian Initiative on Small Arms Transfers in Oslo and Tamar Gabelnick, Acting Director of the Arms Sales Monitoring Project at the Federation of American Scientists in Washington, DC edited the presentations for this book.

El derecho a la personalidad jurídica de las entidades religiosas Santiago Catalá Rubio,2004 Desde que se instaurara el nuevo modelo de relaciones entre el Estado y las distintas confesiones religiosas, incluida la Católica, uno de los problemas más importantes ha sido el acceso al Registro de Entidades Religiosas, pues éste ha condicionado la adquisición de la personalidad jurídica y de la capacidad de obrar.La praxis administrativa, con numerosas denegaciones de inscripción desde que se instituyera el Registro mencionado, en 1981, ha sido buena prueba de ello. El presente trabajo aborda dicha problemática desde una perspectiva eclesial, pero también constitucional, ya que, desde esta doble óptica, el derecho a la vida de las personas jurídicas en un derecho fundamental, dimanante del derecho de la libertad religiosa, pero también de la libertad de asociación, extrayendo de esta conclusión numerosas consecuencias.Tras un análisis histórico en el que el autor constata cómo los Registros del Estado han servido a éste para controlar los diferentes fenómenos asociativos, se aborda en profundidad el régimen jurídico de las entidades religiosas, los requisitos y el procedimiento de inscripción, su estatuto jurídico, los derechos de las entidades no inscritas y cuál ha sido la praxis administrativa y la práctica de los Tribunales, con cita exhaustiva de las Resoluciones recaídas y un importante anexo de especial importancia teórica, aunque de no menos trascendencia práctica para aquellas Iglesias, Confesiones o Comunidades religiosas, o sus asociaciones, que pretendan inmatricularse.Es éste, en suma, un tratado completo, riguroso y crítico, del imperfecto modelo de otorgamiento de la personalidad jurídica a los entes confesionales, lo que reclama la necesidad de arbitrar mecanismos correctores -que el autor propone- y, por supuesto, la necesidad de reformar profundamente el sistema.
