Profile Pieces Sue Joseph, Richard Lance Keeble, 2015-10-14 This book examines the history, theory and journalistic practice of profile writing. Profiles, and the practice of writing them, are of increasing interest to scholars of journalism because conflicts between the interviewer and the subject exemplify the changing nature of journalism itself. While the subject, often through the medium of their press representative, struggles to retain control of the interview space, the journalist seeks to subvert it. This interesting and multi-layered interaction, however, has rarely been subject to critical scrutiny, partly because profiles have traditionally been regarded as public relations exercises or as 'soft' journalism. However, chapters in this volume reveal not only that profiling has, historically, taken many different forms, but that the idea of the interview as a contested space has applications beyond the subject of celebrated individuals. The volume looks at the profile's historical beginnings, at the contemporary manufacture of celebrity versus the 'ordinary', at profiling communities, countries and movements, at profiling the destitute, at sporting personalities and finally at profiling and trauma.

All of me Nandini Joshi, 2022-01-18 This book is a poetry book, which has 4 sections - LIFE, LOVE, HATRED AND DEATH. The first section of the book talks about how life is so unpredictable and situations which are under control are to be managed and accepted accordingly. It also has poems of feminism. The overall quality of the section throws light on life experiences of a growing person. The second section of the book contains poems of love where the love is all a person has and to offer. The feeling and emotions are varied according to romance but love is mutual. The third section discourses about heartbreak and the choice of revenge or not! The hate one feels when he/she is betrayed by the feelings or by the person who shared love with you, is all that is described in the form of poetries. The last and the fourth section of the book, comments on the different perspective of the poet towards death. It has poems of death where the poet thinks of him as a person and talks about how he is the one who is her own and none other than him gives her pleasures of life. The book contains universal sections and clean poetry, so that it can impact every age group and people to match the emotions of their heart if they feel the same. This poetry book is an imaginary book which has all the poems based on imagination and has no connection with reality.

Dynamic Living in Desperate Times Chris Jackson, 2018-12-26 Who is showing us the way? In ancient Palestine, when Jesus Christ asked people who they thought he was, one of their top guesses was the Old Testament prophet, Jeremiah. "Who do people say that I am?" "Some say Jeremiah or one of the prophets." There was something about Jesus that reminded people of Jeremiah. In our moment in history, when we desperately need leaders and role models to show us a better way, Jeremiah stands as a human cornerstone, a blueprint for dynamic living in the middle of desperate times. With compassion and biblical insight, author Chris Jackson shows us how ancient wisdom from Jeremiah's life can lead us into towering, dynamic living today.

The Complete Poems of John Donne Robin Robbins, 2014-06-06 The Poems of John Donne is one volume paperback edition of the poems of John Donne (1572-1631) based on a comprehensive re-evaluation of his work from composition to circulation and reception. Donne's output is tremendously varied in style and form and demonstrates his ability to exercise his rhetorical capabilities according to context and occasion. This edition aims to present the text of all his known poems, from the epigrams, songs and satires written for fellow young men about town, to the more mature verse-epistles and memorial elegies written for his patrons. The Longman Annotated English Poets series traditionally aims to present poems in chronological order; in this edition, however, the principle has been observed only within generic sections. This organisation reproduces the manner in which Donne's original readers first encountered the poems in the various manuscripts of his elegies and satires that circulated in Donne's lifetime. Volume One contains the Epigrams, Verse Letters to Friends, Love Lyrics, Love Elegies and Satires; Volume Two contains the religious poems, Wedding Celebrations, Verse Epistles to Patronesses, Commemorations, and the Anniversaries. The lyrics have been arranged alphabetically for ease of reference and because, in all but a few cases, precise date of composition is impossible to determine. Each poem has extensive editorial commentary designed to put the twenty-first century reader in possession of all that is necessary fully to appreciate Donne's work. A substantial headnote sets each poem in its historical and literary context, while the annotations give detailed guidance on the wealth of classical and religious allusions and give full representation to the literary, historical and philosophical culture out of which the poems grew. In keeping with the traditions of the series, Donne's own text has been modernised in punctuation and spelling except where to do so would alter or disrupt a rhyme.

Orpheus in the Bronx Reginald Shepherd, 2010-02-05 Orpheus in the Bronx not only extols the freedom language affords us; it embodies that freedom, enacting poetry's greatest gift--the power to recognize ourselves as something other than what we are. These bracing arguments were written by a poet who sings. ---James Longenbach A highly acute writer, scholar, editor, and critic, Reginald Shepherd brings to his work the sensibilities of a classicist and a contemporary theorist, an inheritor of the American high modernist canon, and a poet drawing and playing on popular culture, while simultaneously venturing into formal experimentation. In the essays collected here, Shepherd offers probing meditations unified by a resolute defense of poetry's autonomy, and a celebration of the liberatory and utopian possibilities such autonomy offers. Among the pieces included are an eloquent autobiographical essay setting out in the frankest terms the vicissitudes of a Bronx ghetto childhood; the escape offered by books and gifted status preserved by maternal determination; early loss and the equivalent of exile; and the formation of the writer's vocation. With the same frankness that he brings to autobiography, Shepherd also sets out his reasons for rejecting identity politics in poetry as an unnecessary trammeling of literary imagination. His study of the urban pastoral, from Baudelaire through Eliot, Crane, and Gwendolyn Brooks, to Shepherd's own work, provides a fresh view of the place of urban landscape in American poetry. Throughout his essays---as in his poetry---Shepherd juxtaposes unabashed lyricism, historical awareness, and in-your-face contemporaneity, bristling with intelligence. A volume in the Poets on Poetry series, which collects critical works by contemporary poets, gathering together the articles, interviews, and book reviews by which they have articulated the poetics of a new generation.

Who Will Bury The Dead God? Ruman Neupane, 2024-02-02 Imagine a man straddling both sides of good and evil, struggling to regain his balance. He clutches onto both aspects with his bewildered mind, pondering his own senses. As he stands there, his mind races with questions. What is the meaning of his existence? Why has he been placed in this moment, at this time, with these thoughts and feelings? Is there a purpose to his life, or is it all just a random series of events? 'I know God smells terribly bad, and I'm ready to bury him deep in the ground. But is this really the right thing to do? Is there a better solution? Should I try to make the smell more bearable, or is this the only course of action? I'm torn between doing what's best for God and the reality of the situation,' he thinks. Has he fallen into the river of dilemma and been washed away from his suffering? Will this man unravel the mystery of his existence, or will he be swallowed up by the abyss of his own mind?

Boredom Experience and Associated Behaviors Augustin de la Peña, 2023-10-31 This book collects the lifelong research on boredom by American psychologist Augustin de la Peña (1942-2021). It focuses on the experience of boredom—and other similar states, including ennui, melancholy, laziness, interest, attention, and entertainment—and its associated behaviors. Offering an interdisciplinary chronicle of boredom, from Antiquity to the present, special attention is paid to its daily experience as a ubiquitous phenomenon that informs cultural and political actions that continue to shape our society. Dr. de la Peña describes the obsolescence of the Western Commonsense View of Reality to propose a Developmental Psychophysiological Approach to Reality, reconceptualizing boredom. The book theorizes the condition as both logical and emotional, an axis that has defined the sensibility of the modern era. This is a volume edited posthumously by Josefa Ros Velasco and Christian Parreno in homage to Augustin's work and his invaluable contribution to the establishment of the field of boredom studies.

Nurturing Children's Talents Kenneth A. Kiewra,2019-01-04 Explains steps that parents can take to help their child develop talent in any activity that has sparked his or her interest. Nurturing Children's Talents: A Guide for Parents is a book for all parents. That's because talent is made, not born, and parents are in prime position to help children discover and develop talent, whether the talent domain is archery, baton twirling, chess, or zoology. Moreover, talent development is a continuum along which all children can grow. Carnegie Hall might be the destination for some while community band is for others. Meanwhile, most parents are eager to help their children traverse a talent path but don't know how . . . until now. Nurturing Children's Talents offers parents insights and step-by-step plans to help children reach their potential. These recommendations stem from author Kenneth A. Kiewra's personal experience raising a chess champion and his extensive research interviewing talented performers—including national, world, and Olympic champions—and their parents, across many domains.

Fractured Vows Mel West,2025-07-24 They met under the golden lights of an HBCU campus in Atlanta—Jasmine, the quiet, razor-sharp pre-med student determined to become a doctor, and Amir, the confident, charming business major with dreams of entrepreneurship and legacy. Their love was instant, magnetic. Nights full of whispered dreams, laughter in dorm rooms, kisses under streetlights—they believed they could survive anything. And for a while, they did. Marriage, a beautiful baby girl, and careers taking off—Jasmine in residency, Amir running his own consultancy firm. Life was full, intense, and still grounded in love. But somewhere along the way, something in Amir began to shift. Late-night YouTube videos turned into hours of podcasts. Discussions about family became rants about “modern women.” Amir’s warmth cooled, replaced by dominance, criticism, and cold detachment. Jasmine, now juggling motherhood, medicine, and a man she barely recognizes, finds herself suffocating in a home once built on trust. As secrets unravel and passions combust, Jasmine must confront the harsh reality: the man she married may never return. And as the pressure builds, choices must be made—about love, survival, and the future of their daughter. Fractured Vows is a seductive, gut-punching blend of romance and psychological drama that dives deep into the effects of online masculinity culture, the strength of Black womanhood, and the high cost of love lost to ego.
