Rancho Del Muerto, and Other Stories of Adventure by Various Authors, from "Outing" Charles King, 2021-05-19 In Rancho Del Muerto, and Other Stories of Adventure, Charles King curates an impressive anthology that showcases tales of daring escapades and existential challenges, originally published in the magazine Outing. The collection exemplifies a vivid narrative style characterized by rich descriptions and dynamic characterizations, all set against the backdrop of the American frontier. King's choice of stories allows readers to explore diverse themes such as resilience, camaraderie, and the search for identity within the expansive and often treacherous landscape of adventure literature, reflective of the late 19th century's fascination with the heroic and the untamed. Charles King, a pivotal figure in American literature, was an experienced military officer, which deeply influenced his writing. His firsthand knowledge of frontier life and the complexities of the human experience in tumultuous environments resonate throughout the anthology. King's commitment to capturing authentic voices and experiences reveals his intent to immortalize the wild spirit of adventure that defined his era, making this collection not only an artistic endeavor but also a historical document of American narratives. For readers seeking an exhilarating escape into the spirit of adventure, this anthology is a treasure trove of stories that ignite the imagination. King's curation invites both enthusiasts of classic literature and modern adventurers to immerse themselves in the exhilarating experiences depicted in these tales, making it a must-read for those who crave both escapism and depth.

No Ways Tired: The Journey for Professionals of Color in Student Affairs Monica Galloway Burke,U. Monique Robinson,2019-08-01 Even though diversity is currently conveyed as a ubiquitous principle within institutions of higher education, professionals of color still face issues such as discrimination, the glass ceiling, lack of mentoring, and limited access to career networks. Unfortunately, an open channel does not exist for professionals of color to express their frustrations and genuine concerns. The narratives in No Ways Tired present a powerful voice about the experiences of student affairs professionals of color in higher education, including intersecting identities such as race, class, and gender. Furthermore, the narratives are nuggets of personal truth that can serve as a lens for professionals of color who wish to develop strategies to succeed as they traverse their careers in higher education. Through the sharing of their visions of success, lessons learned, and cautionary tales, the authors openly offer insights about how they have created a way to survive and thrive within higher education in spite of challenges and distractions. They also articulate a vision where student affairs professionals of color can develop fully, be authentic, use their agency, and effectively contribute. This book includes recommendations for professionals of color at all levels within higher education and ways to construct opportunities to flourish. The ultimate goal for this book is to promote discussions regarding how professionals of color can be more proactive in developing strategies that are conducive to their professional and personal success as they navigate their higher education careers.

Marking the "Invisible" Andrea M. Hawkman, Sarah B. Shear, 2020-04-01 Substantial research has been put forth calling for the field of social studies education to engage in work dealing with the influence of race and racism within education and society (Branch, 2003; Chandler, 2015; Chandler & Hawley, 2017; Husband, 2010; King & Chandler, 2016; Ladson-Billings, 2003; Ooka Pang, Rivera & Gillette, 1998). Previous contributions have examined the presence and influence of race/ism within the field of social studies teaching and research (e.g. Chandler, 2015, Chandler & Hawley, 2017; Ladson-Billings, 2003; Woynshner & Bohan, 2012). In order to challenge the presence of racism within social studies, research must attend to the control that whiteness and white supremacy maintain within the field. This edited volume builds from these previous works to take on whiteness and white supremacy directly in social studies education. In Marking the "Invisible", editors assemble original contributions from scholars working to expose whiteness and disrupt white supremacy in the field of social studies education. We argue for an articulation of whiteness within the field of social studies education in pursuit of directly challenging its influences on teaching, learning, and research. Across 27 chapters, authors call out the strategies deployed by white supremacy and acknowledge the depths by which it is used to control, manipulate, confine, and define identities, communities, citizenships, and historical narratives. This edited volume promotes the reshaping of social studies education to: support the histories, experiences, and lives of Students and Teachers of Color, challenge settler colonialism and color-evasiveness, develop racial literacy, and promote justice-oriented teaching and learning. Praise for Marking the "Invisible" As the theorization of race and racism continues to gain traction in social studies education, this volume offers a much-needed foundational grounding for the field. From the foreword to the epilogue, Marking the "Invisible" foregrounds conversations of whiteness in notions of supremacy, dominance, and rage. The chapters offer an opportunity for social studies educators to position critical theories of race such as critical race theory, intersectionality, and settler colonialism at the forefront of critical examinations of whiteness. Any social studies educator -researcher concerned with the theorization or teaching of race should engage with this text in their work. Christopher L. Busey, University of Florida
