I'm Gonna Love You: O'Neill Brothers Virna DePaul, 2016-05-20 Steadfast and pragmatic Brady O'Neill, second eldest of five Irish brothers, never thought he'd leave Dublin. But after the death of his daughter and his parents, and the loss of his wife, Brady realizes he can no longer live in the city where he experienced his greatest joys and deepest heartaches. Moving to America, he joins his brothers in Forestville, California, to open a family restaurant. What he doesn't expect is the spark he feels when he meets Anna Kincaid, a confident, gorgeous woman with enough sass to sink a ship. Owner of a local eco-adventure tour company, Anna Kincaid is familiar with all that is Forestville. So when recent Irish arrival, the insanely handsome and sexy Brady O'Neill, wants to visit the vineyard where his mother grew up, she agrees to be his guide. Soon, Brady's showing his appreciation with more than flirtatious smiles and mind-boggling kisses. The chemistry between them may be explosive, but tensions heighten when Anna's recklessness puts her in danger. Brady's lost too much already; and a risk-taking woman with an impetuous nature could cost him yet again. Will Brady risk giving all he is to Anna? And will Anna learn that there's no greater excitement in the world than taking a chance on love?

The Pop Documentary Since 1980 Richard Wallace, 2025-07-10 In The Pop Documentary Since 1980, Richard Wallace examines the representation of pop music, musicians and music-making in documentary film and television. He draws together conceptual frameworks from within and outside of film and television studies - including performance studies, musicology, celebrity studies and fan studies - to provide a critical interrogation of the central issues in this genre. A common criticism of the music documentary is that it lacks artistic integrity because of its close affiliation with its subject. Wallace argues that music documentaries can be artful and conceptually complex and be part of a broader process of image curation under the control of the artist and their management. This contradiction is key to the form's vitality and Wallace explores two competing lines of enquiry. First, the contribution that such documentaries make to the public perception of their subjects. Second, he argues that its 'official' status does not preclude music documentaries from being artistic or engaging with the theoretical questions that underpin documentary media more broadly. Other issues addressed include: - how documentaries about song writing attempt to represent intangible concepts like 'creativity' and 'inspiration'; - how the experiential and affective aspects of music are communicated through the visual image; - ethical considerations. Each of these conceptual questions is examined through detailed analysis of a variety of music documentaries ranging from Stop Making Sense to Tokyo Idols via Beyoncé and The Beatles.

Writing the School House Blues Anne Haas Dyson, 2021 Anne Dyson confronts race and racism head-on with this ethnographic study of a child's efforts to belong—to be a child among children. Follow the journey of a small Black child, Ta'Von, as he moves from a culturally inclusive preschool through the early grades in a school located in a majority white neighborhood. Readers will see Ta'Von encountering obstacles but finding agency and joy through writing and music-making, especially his love of the blues. Most attempts at desegregating schools are studied by reducing individual children to demographic statistics and test scores. This book, instead, provides a child's perspective on challenges to classroom inclusion. Ta'Von's journey demonstrates that it is within children's peer worlds—formed in response to institutional policies and practices like desegregation initiatives, standardized testing, and a curricular focus on so-called "basic literacy skills"—that inequity becomes part of the experience of childhood. This book examines policies about literacy testing and teaching, including the potential power of the written word and of the arts. "Few researchers have had a career so embedded inside the lives of children in a classroom context as Anne Haas Dyson. This book should be on every literacy researcher's shelf. It is a culmination of years of Dyson's relentless fight against deficit framings of children and the deep inequalities that continue to persist in the world." —Jennifer Rowsell, professor of literacies and social innovation, University of Bristol Dahil alam ni Phelan ang talent ko sa pagkanta at paggawa ng tula, nagpagawa siya akin ng kanta para kay Toni, ang girlfriend niyang mestiza. Ang saklap lang—dahil masokista yata ako—pinagbigyan ko si Phelan. Nang makapag-compose ako ng kanta, pinintasan naman niya. Pero bakit niya in-upload sa YouTube? Sumikat tuloy ako nang dahil sa kanya. Bigla, nagpakita ng interes sa akin si Phelan. Para lang masaktan. Dahil sa huli, kailangan kong magpaubaya para kay Toni...
