Neuroscience in Africa Nilesh B. Patel,Vivienne A. Russell,Nouria Lakhdar-Ghazal,2019-06-28 This Research Topic covers some of the latest research on brain and behavior in health and disease in Africa. With its untapped resources and unique situations, "Neuroscience in Africa" has the potential to contribute to a better understanding of human brain function both in health and disease. The diverse African fauna display a range of specializations in brain structure/function relationships as a result of adaptations to the environment. Exploration of these may lead to insights into coping strategies which could be extrapolated to humans. Africa's unique flora is being investigated for anti-inflammatory, antinociceptive, antioxidant, antiepileptogenic and neuroprotective properties to determine its potential for use in the treatment of human brain disorders. There is also research on neurodegenerative and infectious diseases, not only common to the global world, but also neglected tropical diseases and conditions which provide unique avenues of investigations in basic and translational neuroscience on highly debilitating disorders - and on the effects of pathogens and environmental toxins.
