Tecnología y margen de refino del petróleo José Lluch Urpi, 2012-01-04 El margen es la función económica a maximizar en las actividad del refino del petróleo. Es función del crudo procesado, de los productos obtenidos y de los costes variables ligados al propio proceso, fundamentalmente los costes de las energías y los productos químicos. Además los productos obtenidos y su calidad varia en función de los procesos utilizados y agregados en un determinado esquema de refino. El libro pretende describir cada uno de los factores que intervienen en el margen: los crudos, los productos, los procesos y los esquema de refino haciendo especial hincapié en los procedimientos de cálculo de rendimientos y propiedades de mezclas de crudos y de productos, los rendimientos en unidades de procesos y en los esquemas de refino que los integran.
