The River Between Us: Because Even Rivers Choose Love Ravin Kumar, 2025-07-19 The River Between Us is a poetic and heartwarming romantic short story by Ravin Kumar, exploring the quiet power of childhood connection, fate, and timeless love. Set across a serene village and a modern cruise ship, the story follows Ravin and Pooja—two soulmates bound by paper boats, a copper ring, and a mysterious letter “R”. As life separates them and time flows on like a river, a quiet reunion unfolds through symbols, silence, and destiny. This story blends memory, emotion, and subtle symbolism to remind us that true love never forgets—and always finds its way home. About the Author Ravin Kumar is an artist, engineer, researcher, inventor, mathematician, and writer whose work bridges the precision of science with the depth of human emotion. He is the author of The Engineer's Plan, a self-help book for aspiring engineers, and the creator of the APTx Neuron and APTx Activation Function in deep learning, as well as the Adaptive Base Representation (ABR) Theorem in mathematics. His contributions span artificial intelligence, pure and applied mathematics, theoretical economics—including the concept of Addictive Auctions—quantum computing, operating systems, and algorithm design. With several patented inventions, published research, and over 50 software projects, he continues to explore the boundaries of what is possible—blending logical emotion with emotional logic. The River Between Us is his most personal work yet, blending memory, symbolism, and silence into a story that reminds us love is never truly lost.
