Suitable for reading to young children and for reading independently (+8). Zuri lives at the edge of a big forest, together with her father and mother. Being in nature, among the flowers and the trees, and playing around with the animals is what makes her really happy. On a beautiful autumn day, the peace and quiet in the forest is suddenly disturbed by lumberjacks. When Zuri sees that her favourite apple tree is in danger, she comes up with a plan to save it. The next morning Zuri sets off to the king's castle. On her way there, she stumbles upon an old acquaintance who gladly offers to help her get back on track when she gets lost. But the biggest question remains: will her plan succeed, and will she be able to convince the king's son, prince Sam, to stop the lumberjacks and save the forest?

Like the original edition, the Standards Edition is based on theory and research. It contains new chapters that specifically focus on developing the skills needed to decode literature and informational text. Expanded chapters include activities that target specific concepts included in national literacy standards.
