Pablo Escobar and Colombian Narcoculture Aldona Bialowas Pobutsky,2025-02-18 In this exploration of Colombian drug lord Pablo Escobar's impact on popular culture, Aldona Bialowas Pobutsky shows how Escobar's legacy inspired the development of narcocultura—television, music, literature, and fashion representing the drug-trafficking lifestyle—in Colombia and around the world.

Intercultural Screen Adaptation Stewart Michael Stewart,2020-03-27 Intercultural Screen Adaptation offers a wide-ranging examination of how film and television adaptations (and non-adaptations) interact with the cultural, social and political environments of their national, transnational and post-national contexts. With screen adaptations examined from across Britain, Europe, South America and Asia, this book tests how examining the processes of adaptation across and within national frameworks challenges traditional debates around the concept of nation in film, media and cultural studies. With case studies of films such as Under the Skin (2013) and T2: Trainspotting (2017), as well as TV adaptations like War and Peace (2016) and Narcos (2015 - 2017), Intercultural Screen Adaptation offers readers an invigorating look at adaptations from a variety of critical perspectives, incorporating the uses of landscape, nostalgia and translation.

Escobar - 3. Long Live the King Guido Piccoli, 2017-12-13T00:00:00+01:00 Pablo Escobar is widely considered to have been the most successful criminal in history and to have invented modern-day drug trafficking. At the height of his career, the Colombian kingpin was making a million dollars a day smuggling cocaine into the United States. Here is the tale of the final days of El Patrón, folk hero to some, public enemy number one to others, doting father and family man, ruthless murderer and an outlaw like no other.

The Notorious Pablo Escobar Lovenia Nancy, 2022-10-27 Pablo Emilio Escobar Gaviria was born December 1, 1949 in the city of Rionegro, Colombia. He was the son of Abel de Jesús Dari Escobar Echeverry and Hermilda Gaviria Berrío. Pablo's family moved to Envigado when he was young, where he went on to become one of the most ruthless criminals in history, responsible for the deaths of thousands of people and making billions of dollars from cocaine trafficking by setting up an intricate network of laboratories, transportation routes and distribution hubs throughout the United States and Europe. Young Pablo enters the drug business in the early 1970s with the ransom money as his starting capital. He works for other drug traffickers for his first few years. Fabio Restrepo, one of Medellín's biggest drug lords, is murdered in 1975. Because Restrepo's men were informed immediately after his death that they were now working for Pablo Escobar, it is believed that Escobar was responsible for this crime, despite the fact that this was never proven. Pablo Escobar did the dirty work that drug smuggling requires without hesitation. He was known for his bravery. Even though he was a rising drug lord, he never had a problem flying a plane full of coca paste more than a few times, mostly between Colombia and Panama. He decommissioned the plane he used to fly in those early years and hung it over the gate of his famous hacienda for good luck later, when his wealth reached legendary levels. His cocaine business had a very straightforward supply chain: He brought in high-quality coca paste from Bolivia and Peru, processed it in Colombia into cocaine, and shipped it to the United States to be sold and distributed. Escobar was a smart businessman who made his business grow quickly and soon needed more employees. The Medellín cartel, an organization that gathered all of the criminal organizations in the suburb, was formed in this manner. The first drug cartel in history was the Medellín Cartel. Escobar took advantage of the opportunity to conquer and control a large market. The pilot who flew a plane for the Medellín Cartel could receive cuts as high as $750,000 per flight in a few years, depending on the quantity of drugs or raw materials he smuggled into or out of the country. His first import of coca paste cost only 45 dollars. It was not a secret that Pablo Escobar liked young women. His marriage to Maria Victoria Henao Vellejo, who was only 15 when he proposed to her, is evidence of this. The young couple needed the special blessing of the local bishop before they could wed. He and his wife had two children: Manuela and Juan Pablo. Pablo Escobar had numerous love affairs, the majority with minors, even though they were married until his death in 1993. Between 1983 and 1987, he had his most well-known affair. Virginia Vallejo, his mistress, went on to become a well-known television personality in Columbia. When Colombian television broadcast a video in which she accused a former senator of instigating Pablo Escobar in her presence to eliminate Luis Carlo Galan, a presidential candidate, on July 24, 2006, she became the focus of a significant media scandal. Her biography Loving Pablo, Hating Escobar (Amando a Paul, odiando a Escobar) contains information about the King of Cocaine at his peak that no other biographer could have gotten. She testified as a crucial witness in multiple legal actions against politicians, including former Colombian presidents. The Truth Commission validated her statements. In connection with the Palace of Justice Siege, a high-ranking former colonel and a former general were given sentences of 35 and 35 years, respectively, following her deposition. In the end, the United States granted her political asylum.

Escobar - Volume 2 - Against All Odds Guido Piccoli, 2017-11-15 T00:00:00+01:00 Pablo Escobar is widely considered to have been the most successful criminal in history and to have invented modern-day drug trafficking. At the height of his career, the Colombian kingpin was making a million dollars a day smuggling cocaine into the United States. Here is the tale of the final days of El Patrón, folk hero to some, public enemy number one to others, doting father and family man, ruthless murderer and an outlaw like no other.

Escobar (Loving Pablo, Hating Escobar Mti) Virginia Vallejo, 2017-10-03 A revealing memoir of Colombian television journalist Virginia Vallejo's affair with the King of Cocaine, notorious Medellin drug lord, Pablo Escobar. Soon to be a Major Motion Picture starring Javier Bardem and Penelope Cruz. At 33, Virginia Vallejo was part of the media elite. A renowned anchorwoman and socialite, and a model who appeared on magazine covers worldwide, Vallejo was the darling of Colombia's most powerful politicians and billionaires. Meeting Pablo Escobar in 1983, then becoming his mistress for many years, she witnessed the rise of a drug empire that was characterized by Escobar's far-reaching political corruption, his extraordinary wealth, and a network of violent crime that lasted until his death in 1993. In this highly personal and insightful story, Vallejo characterizes the duality of Escobar. His charm and charisma as a benefactor to many Colombians contrast with the repulsiveness of his criminal actions as a tyrannical terrorist and enemy of many world leaders. Told from the perspective of the present day, and reflecting on her cooperation with the US Department of Justice in 2006, as she testified against high-ranking Colombian ministers on trial for conspiracy and murder, Vallejo offers a compelling work of both intimate reflection and critical journalism--a unique perspective on the Colombian drug wars and the endlessly fascinating figure of Pablo Escobar.
