IEEE Citation Guidelines2.doc IEEE citation style is used primarily for electronics, engineering, telecommunications, computer science, and information technology reports. The three main parts of a reference are as follows: IEEE Standards - draft standard template The IEEE Standards Style Manual (PDF) establishes preferred style for the preparation and structure of proposed IEEE standards (drafts). It also cites requirements of the IEEE SA Standards Board Operations Manual that are related to ... IEEE Formatting Quick Guide IEEE format, used for math and computer-science papers, journal papers, and patents, consists mostly of rules for citations and references. General formatting should follow the The Chicago Manual of Style guidelines: IEEE Formatting Guidelines - Academics IEEE Formatting Guidelines This formatting style was developed by The Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers, and is most often used in technical fields. The front of this handout will be your "How to," and the back will have a full first page example. IEEE Editorial Style Manual for Authors For guidance in grammar and usage not included in this manual, please consult The Chicago Manual of Style, published by the University of Chicago Press. All IEEE Transactions are refereed archival journals. IEEE EDITORIAL STYLE MANUAL Since the IEEE is concerned with style mainly in the sense of our house style, the IEEE does not try to change an author's style of writing. We do a mechanical edit to correct or question grammatical errors, obvious inconsistencies or omissions, spelling, and punctuation. IEEE Reference Style Guide for Authors IEEE publications must list names of all authors, up to six names. If there are more than six names listed, use the primary author's name followed by "et al."
