Frat Brother Turned Cole Bates, 2017-02-17 Blake Cabello attends college on a football scholarship. He lives in a frat house and easily up to his reputation as a hot jock, until his father decides to get remarried. Jamie Rush was a senior in high school and living a quiet life with his mom when she married Blake's dad. Jamie came out to her and his friends in Oregon years before and his new step-father and step-brother, as masculine as they both are, don't seem to have a problem with that. That is until Jamie leaves for college and the same fraternity house that his step-brother has lived in for the past year. Jamie just wants to get an education. He joined the fraternity to please his mother and step-father who had met there years earlier. Blake just wants to keep his reputation intact and do his best to not disappoint his father. Smaller than the rest of them and not the least bit aggressive, Jamie becomes an easy target for the bullies that live in the frat house. If that wasn't bad enough, the step-brother he has looked up to and even developed a little crush on at home, seems to always be right there in the center of it all, and not on Jamie's side. Jamie doesn't want to dislike Blake, but sometimes it seems that's exactly what Blake is trying to get him to do. Blake doesn't really have a problem with Jamie, but he does have a reputation to uphold. As a matter of fact, Blake has a lot of secrets that he's struggling with, an almost double life that he's leading and scared to death that someone else is going to discover. For one thing he's been having dreams about his step-brother. They're unsettling and confusing. He's not gay, not even a little bit, so why does Jamie have such an effect on him? Then there's his involvement in the underground world of fighting. He thinks it's a good way to release his stress and actually do something just for himself for a change...but has he gotten in too deep? When Blake's double life implodes and Jamie's the only one there to save him, will his step-brother step up, or will Jamie take a page out of Blake's playbook and simply walk away?

He let his eyes run all over Sam's body as if he remembered what Sam looked like naked, but Jason didn't mention anything about the last time they met. Instead, they spent a pleasant evening eating takeaway and watching a movie together. Just like good buddies would do. Sam realised Jason was more likeable than Sam had thought from their previous encounter. Maybe this encounter would suit more than one purpose, Sam thought. But first, he wanted to get even. After that, they could become friends if Jason was still interested. Jason placed his arm over the top of the couch. Sam felt his fingers curl against his hair from time, wondering if Jason wanted something more than just friendship. Still, Sam wasn't surprised when the other man kept his distance. Jason was probably too scared to admit he wanted more. Too nervous to ask for it. Sam had always known he was different. Now he knew without a doubt that he was gay. He wouldn't turn down Jason if he finally dared to touch more of him, but he refused to make the first move. It might scare off the straight man, and Sam didn't want that until he had what he wanted. Sam heard Jason clear his throat several times as the movie ended. Sam handed him another beer before he sat beside Jason, maintaining a short distance between them. They were close but without touching. His couch was so small that it didn't seem odd for him to be this close to Jason. "Sam. Uhm, can I ask you something?" Jason finally asked. "Sure. Go ahead," Sam said as he wrapped his lips around the beer bottle and took a deep drink before he swallowed. —————

For some reason, Matt had moved across the country and into an apartment in the same neighbourhood as Sam. Sam didn't like it. It felt too much like stalking. Sam had tried hard to forget everything they did in their parent's house that night. His feelings for his stepbrother had always been mixed, and now they were more confusing than ever. Were they enemies or lovers? He knew for sure that they would never be friends. "Come to my place this evening," Matt said. "Forget it." Matt sighed. "Do I have to remind you what will happen if you don't follow my command?" Sam groaned. "What is it this time? Did you videotape us?" Matt laughed. "You know me too well. Of course, I did.
