Zorn and Grayall Find Murder by the Way Val Chanda,2014-09-19 In the land of Allothi-A rebellion in the region known as the Realm has freed the servitors from their ariston masters. It has also ruined Grayall of Wellworth's life. The unrest in the Realm has destroyed her family's trading enterprise. Worse, the man she loved has died fighting for the rebel cause. Returning from the journey to learn his fate, Grayall comes upon one of the hated ariston rulers, Zorn of Northmarch, abandoned and badly injured. Grayall wants nothing more than to leave this aristo to suffer an apparently well-deserved death, but she cannot. She takes Zorn to the safety of the outlying village of Arandell. There a good friend, Traina, a physician, lives with her ward Brandon. Upon arriving, Grayall finds that Brandon has been accused of a brutal murder. With the villagers convinced of his guilt, his best hope of exoneration rests on Zorn, the outsider. But Grayall fears that the coldly arrogant ariston, embittered by the collapse of the Realm, will not care whether a village boy like Brandon lives or dies.

Zorn and Grayall Encounter the Elements of Murder Val Chanda,2015-06 In the land of Allothi-Zorn of Northmarch and Grayall of Wellworth have both had their lives upended by the downfall of the Realm. Other than that, the dispossessed ariston and the once prosperous trader have little in common. Despite their differences, they worked together to solve a brutal murder in the village of Arandell. Having reached a tentative accord, they decide to travel to Allothi's commercial center, the Exchanges. There Grayall will use old friendships and her trader's expertise to assist Zorn in selling her ariston insignia, the only wealth she has left. However, Grayall remains uneasy about Zorn-her chilling detachment, her skill with weapons, her willingness to defend herself without hesitation. During their journey, Grayall learns just how lethal those traits can be. Despite that lesson-or rather because of it-they arrive in the Exchanges safely. But with another murderer on the loose and an embittered servitor making threats, Grayall fears that Zorn of Northmarch will prove to be the most dangerous person of all.

A Story of The Bodkin Murders PAUL B McNULTY,2015-05-25 Ten people are murdered in an inheritance-motivated feud at the Bodkin residence in 1741. Following the killings, John Bodkin becomes heir to that estate in Galway. He is now free to marry Catherine Bermingham, the gorgeous daughter of Lord Athenry. But their plans are clouded by the ensuing trial in which John's cousin, Shawn Bodkin, is one of those convicted. In a statement from the gallows, Shawn accuses John of fratricide in an earlier conflict. Instead of protesting his innocence, John goes on the run only to be apprehended by the army. At his trial, John refuses to plead either guilty or not guilty to the murder of his brother Patrick. Only Catherine knows why.

She is the keeper of a dark secret, which John insists must remain hidden, even if it costs him his freedom or his life. Based on real events, A Story of the Bodkin Murders explores a fascinating tale of treachery, greed and romance in 18th century Ireland.

The Pendragon Murders J.M.C. Blair,2010-02-02 Merlin investigates a royal mystery at Stonehenge. A baron and his sons are found dead at Stonehenge. King Arthur's potential heirs start to mysteriously die. And only Merlin can prove that the murders are not the work of the plague, but something much more sinister.

Condemned to Death Cora Harrison,2015-02-01 When Mara, Brehon of the Burren, is summoned to the sandy beach of Fanore, on the western fringe of the kingdom of the Burren, she sees a sight that she has never witnessed before during her thirty years as law-enforcer and investigating magistrate: a dead man lying in a boat with no oars. Immediately her scholars jump to the conclusion that the man has been found guilty of kin-murder. The Brehon sentence for this worst of all crimes is that the murderer be towed out to sea and left to the mercy of wind and waves and the ultimate judgement of Almighty God. But Mara notices something odd about the body, something which arouses her suspicions. And something familiar about the boat in which he lies. Soon she has embarked on a full-scale murder investigation. And gradually suspicion dawns that someone near and dear to her is involved in the murder.

Verdict of the Court Cora Harrison,2014-07-01 A festive celebration turns into a fight for survival when Mara and her clan come under attack . . . Christmas 1519 is the twentieth anniversary of King Turlough Donn's reign over the three kingdoms of Thomond, Corcomroe and Burren, so Mara and her scholars are spending the festive period in her husband's principal court, the castle of Bunratty in Thomond. However, in the midst of celebrations, the Brehon of Thomond is found dead, slumped across a table with a knife protruding from below his shoulder blade, while all around him Turlough's relations and friends dance and feast. Mara's difficult task in probing the motives of the multiple suspects, made worse by her suspicion that someone near and dear to her is involved, is interrupted by a dramatic attack on the castle. Turlough's cannon has been sabotaged and now a trebuchet batters the castle with huge rocks and the lives of all are at risk. Has this treachery and betrayal anything to do the mysterious death of the Brehon, but most importantly how will Mara's husband answer the call for surrender . . .?
