Ravenna and the Traditions of Late Antique and Early Byzantine Craftsmanship Salvatore Cosentino, 2020-08-10

In the last twenty years scholarship on late antique and early medieval Ravenna has resulted in a certain number of publications mainly focused on the fields of architecture, mosaics and archaeology. On the contrary, much less attention has been paid on labour – both manual and intellectual – as well as the structure of production and objects derived from manufacturing activities, despite the fact that Ravenna is the place which preserves the highest number of historical evidence among all centres of the late Roman Mediterranean. Its cultural heritage is vast and composite, ranging from papyri to inscriptions, from ivories to marbles, as well as luxury objects, pottery, and coins. Starting from concrete typologies of hand-manufactured goods existing in the Ravennate milieu, the book aims at exploring the multifaceted traditions of late antique and early Byzantine handicraft from the fourth to the eighth century AD. Its perspective is to pay attention more on patronage, social taste, acculturation, workers and the economic industry of production which supported the demand, circulation and distribution of artefacts, than on the artistic evaluation of the objects themselves.

Death embodied Zoë L. Devlin, Emma-Jayne Graham, 2015-06-30 In April 1485, a marble sarcophagus was found on the outskirts of Rome. It contained the remains of a young Roman woman so well-preserved that she appeared to have only just died and the sarcophagus was placed on public view, attracting great crowds. Such a find reminds us of the power of the dead body to evoke in the minds of living people, be they contemporary (survivors or mourners) or distanced from the remains by time, a range of emotions and physical responses, ranging from fascination to fear, and from curiosity to disgust. Archaeological interpretations of burial remains can often suggest that the skeletons which we uncover, and therefore usually associate with past funerary practices, were what was actually deposited in graves, rather than articulated corpses. The choices made by past communities or individuals about how to cope with a dead body in all of its dynamic and constituent forms, and whether there was reason to treat it in a manner that singled it out (positively or negatively) as different from other human corpses, provide the stimulus for this volume. The nine papers provide a series of theoretically informed, but not constrained, case studies which focus predominantly on the corporeal body in death. The aims are to take account of the active presence of dynamic material bodies at the heart of funerary events and to explore the questions that might be asked about their treatment; to explore ways of putting fleshed bodies back into our discussions of burials and mortuary treatment, as well as interpreting the meaning of these activities in relation to the bodies of both deceased and survivors; and to combine the insights that body-centered analysis can produce to contribute to a more nuanced understanding of the role of the body, living and dead, in past cultures.

A Companion to Roman Italy Alison E. Cooley,2016-01-05 A Companion to Roman Italy investigates the impact of Rome in all its forms—political, cultural, social, and economic—upon Italy's various regions, as well as the extent to which unification occurred as Rome became the capital of Italy. The collection presents new archaeological data relating to the sites of Roman Italy. Contributions discuss new theories of how to understand cultural change in the Italian peninsula. Combines detailed case-studies of particular sites with wider-ranging thematic chapters. Leading contributors not only make accessible the most recent work on Roman Italy, but also offer fresh insight on long standing debates.

Immagini divine. Devozioni e divinità nella vita quotidiana dei Romani, testimonianze archeologiche dall'Emilia Romagna Jacopo Ortalli,Diana Neri,2007-11-01 Quando, nel 268 a.C., i coloni romani si affacciarono nella Valle Padana per fondare Ariminum, si trovarono di fronte ad un territorio con una popolazione molto composita, formata da diverse tribù galliche sopra un substrato umbro-etrusco, con tradizioni, e quindi con credenze religiose, molto varie. La tradizione religiosa romana portata dai colonizzatori univa, quindi, una religione pubblica, codificata per quanto riguardava i riti, ed una religiosità privata, collegata alle tradizioni popolari e familiari, molto più variata e difficile da precisare, anche per la quasi assoluta mancanza di fonti relative. La mostra di Castelfranco Emilia presenta quindi un panorama estremamente variato, anche discontinuo, su manifestazioni ed aspetti diversi di religiosità familiare, privata, popolare e popolare-scientifica. Questo nuovo Quaderno della Soprintendenza per i Beni Archeologici dell'Emilia-Romagna, pur nella sua scientificità, si presenta quindi diverso, portatore di conoscenza e di aspetti inusuali della vita dei romani, più vicini e più vitali rispetto a quanto tradizionalmente presentato.
