Code of Ethics - National Association of Social Workers NASW Code of Ethics The NASW Code of Ethics is intended to serve as a guide to the everyday professional conduct of social workers. The Code of Ethics includes four sections: The first section, "Preamble," summarizes the social work profession's mission and core values. Code of Ethics - National Association of Social Workers It offers a set of values, principles and standards to guide decision-making and everyday professional conduct of social workers. It is relevant to all social workers and social work students regardless of their specific functions or settings. Code of Ethics - National Association of Social Workers The NASW Code of Ethics sets forth these values, principles, and standards to guide social workers' conduct. The Code is relevant to all social workers and social work students, regardless of their professional functions, the settings in which they work, or the populations they serve. NASW Code of Ethics, 2008 Version The NASW Code of Ethics sets forth these values, principles, and standards to guide social workers' conduct. The Code is relevant to all social workers and social work students, regardless of their professional functions, the settings in which they work, or the populations they serve. Code of Ethics - NASW The NASW Code of Ethics defines the values, principles, and ethical standards that guide decision-making and everyday professional conduct of social workers. Code of Ethics: English - NASW Read the NASW Code of Ethics, which outlines the core values forming the foundation of social work's unique purpose and perspective. Ethics - NASW NASW provides ethics education and training, administers the professional review process, offers ethics consultation to members, and provides information about members who have been sanctioned through the NASW professional review process. 2021 Amendments Code of Ethics - NASW Changes to the Ethical Principles section of the Code also took into account that self-care also protects social workers' capacity to support the values of integrity. Social Workers' Ethical Responsibilities to Clients - NASW When social workers act on behalf of clients who lack the capacity to make informed decisions, social workers should take reasonable steps to safeguard the interests and rights of those clients. Social Workers' Ethical Responsibilities as Professionals - NASW Social workers should claim only those relevant professional credentials they actually possess and take steps to correct any inaccuracies or misrepresentations of their credentials by others.
